The Citizen

The "citizen" should be an important term to everybody, because, in common language, it stands for everything that Old Glory stands for. When we say "the citizen," meaning of course the person subject to the flag, the Constitution and the laws of the United States, we mean all that the Constitution and the laws of the United States stand for.

To the community of Berea and to many former residents of Berea, the word "Citizen" should have a double meaning. It should mean all that the citizen of the United States means, and it should mean all that a clean local newspaper means.

The question that confronts the weekly newspaper is whether it will continue to live or whether it will die for the sake of the daily. Without carefully thinking the matter over, some one may say that the weekly newspaper should pass and let the daily have full sway. But in reality do you want that? Do you want the public voice of your community silenced; the medium of your local advertisements, the carrier of the letters from your friends that are of general interest, the means of announcing local happenings, aside from the many valuable articles that come to you every week, to pass?

Would the citizens in Berea be happy to have no newspaper? There is a real problem facing all weekly papers, and that problem is in the hands of the people who live in the community, or who live within the range of the weekly paper's circulation. If the citizens fail to support their own paper by subscribing for it by lending encouragement to it, by making suggestions of improvements, by stating what they want in the way of a local paper, then it must die, or else become so unworthy as not to merit the support of the people.

The Citizen stands for clean local government, for a just and equitable administration of the law, for freedom of speech, so far as that freedom stays within the bounds of public welfare. It stands for a clean personal life. The Citizen solicits suggestions and recommendation from its subscribers and will treat all such with fair consideration and perfect confidence.

Will you get behind The Citizen and help to make it what you want it to be. Will you help to double our subscription list by January first. If we are failing to come up to your ideal of a paper, please write us a letter at once. The Citizen desires to serve you and asks only for a chance to reflect your opinions and sentiments.

Proficiency in Common Places

America has more experts and more bunglers than any other country in the world. It is characteristic of the typical American to think that he is just about the last word in proficiency and success in the manipulation of the particular job that is engaging his time. As a result of these two extremes we have the most expert athletes and sportsmen; at the same time millions who are undeveloped and incompetent because of the inadequate knowledge of the laws of physical development. We have skilled mechanics who can perfect the greatest automobile in the world; at the same time thousands of bunglers who tear up and destroy more automobiles than any group of people in the world.

Below the class of highly skilled experts there should be a great class of common, tho proficient, workmen. We should have more automobile owners who can fix a car. We should have more farm owners who know what to do with their soil without sending to the Department of Agriculture for expert advice. We need more common citizens who can paint a house, paper a wall, make a concrete walk around the house, build a kitchen sink, make an ironing board, and do a hundred things for the beauty and comfort of the home without the unnecessary expense of calling in an expert. The urgent needs along these lines are calling for vocational training in schools, not altogether for making experts to deal out information to the untrained masses, but to prepare the common housekeeper to do what needs to be done. Let us add to our classical learning and to our literary training knowledge of these hand-professions which give us comfort in the using as well as enjoyment in the making.

SEVENTY SECONDS OF SUNSHINE

By Patton Faris

It's Dead Certain—

—That sometimes we can get along with a little less than perfection, if we've a mind to. Even a cloudy day is better than a dark night.

Twice a Hero

"I have seen few heroes who were not afraid." This was said by a man who has seen many heroes in battle. Then no one need feel ashamed because sometimes he feels afraid. Shame need come only with giving way to the fear. Whoever is afraid, yet "stands the gaff," has conquered the foe in front of him and the foe within him—his fear. He is twice a hero.

It helps to remember that self-distrust means early self-detestation, while self-confidence means eventual self-satisfaction.

Which Is Master?

There's a contest greeting us one and all, once we begin to live, "Twixt question and answer: 'What do I get?' and also, 'What do I give?'"

What do we get as wages, and what do we do in return?

What do we draw down weekly (regardless of what we earn)?

And, what are we willing to render in service hearty and free, Just for the joy of the doing, just for humanity?

But when my life is ended, what then will my judgment be—

Has "What do I get?" or, "What do I give?" won the mastery over me?

DIXIE HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION EXPECTS LARGE REPRESENTATION IN CINCINNATI

It is now certain that every section of both the eastern and western branches of the Dixie Highway will be liberally represented at the meeting of the Dixie Highway Association, to be held in Cincinnati on September 8, 9, and 10th. Information and hotel reservations received by the Cincinnati Committee in charge of the details for the convention, makes it certain that every section of the South on either branch of the highway, will send motor cars to join the big caravan which will assemble at Lexington early on the morning of September 8th for the triumphal entry into Cincinnati early in the afternoon. Miami, Daytona, Jacksonville, Gainesville, Suwannee, Tallahassee and Tampa are among the Florida cities whose good roads enthusiasts have pledged themselves to be represented at the meeting. From Savannah, Augusta, Brunswick, Griffin, Macon, Atlanta and other Georgia cities the cavalcade will be swelled, while North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky will swing hundreds of additional cars into line. Michigan has promised to send a large delegation over the Highway, as well as Illinois, with Chicago and Danville largely represented, and Indiana, with Crawfordsville, Indianapolis, Bloomington, South Bend and New Albany contributing to the visiting drivers.

Chairman J. Stacy Hill of the local committee has announced that a prize of $100 will be awarded to the automobilist coming the longest distance. Prizes will also be awarded to the largest delegation registering from any county on the Dixie Highway farther than 100 miles from Cincinnati and also to the largest delegation from any county within 100 miles of the city. Hamilton, Kenton and Campbell counties excepted.

FLANNERY-HAYS WEDDING

On Monday afternoon at two o'clock, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Flannery, on Center street, their daughter, Elizabeth Flannery, and Mr. Herbert Hays were united in holy wedlock. Rev. Hudspeth officiated. The home was tastefully decorated in ferns and cut flowers. Only members of the immediate families were present. The bride wore a coat suit of dark blue tulle with a corsage bouquet of rose buds. The groom wore the conventional black suit.

They left for a short automobile trip, after which they will be at home on Jackson street, to their many friends. Both the young people have been raised in and near Berea, and their friends are legion. We all wish to them much happiness.

ATTENTION

Transportation by automobile for ex-service men to the convention at Lexington will be arranged providing a number of men wish to go this way. If you are interested see Sam Doughton, Post Adjutant, at Boone Tavern.

Encouraging.

Kathryn—I intend to marry Billy Bullion in spite of all opposition. Kytte—If Billy sees you're real determined I don't think he'll oppose you so very long.

PEOPLE RESPOND TO WARNING AGAINST TYPHOID FEVER

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 13.—The response thruout Kentucky to the general warning against typhoid fever circulated by the State Board of Health, a warning in which universal vaccination against the disease was advocated, has been most encouraging to the State Health authorities, Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, said here today.

In Daviess county, he mentioned in illustration, 467 vaccinations were performed last week and more than 3,000 persons have been vaccinated during the season. Dr. G. W. Duvall is County Health Officer there. In one section of the county, where last year there was an outline of the disease, 1,242 persons have been inoculated and as a result of these preventive measures not a single case has developed this summer.

Many other communities have reported similarly encouraging facts. Dr. W. N. Lipscomb, Health Officer of Scott county, has vaccinated over 1,000 persons. Dr. C. H. Voorhies, City Health Officer at Lexington, has performed 4,000 vaccinations. In Harlan county extensive work in improving general sanitary conditions has been carried out under the supervision of Dr. R. J. Mallott, County Health Officer.

THESE shingles do not rot, the nail heads that fasten them do not rust off, they do not dry out, curl or split, wind does not loosen them.

This is because the body of the shingle is made of wool felt saturated and built up with Carey tempered asphalt which protects the nail heads and makes the shingle elastic, flexible and permanently water-proof.

Carey Shingles meet the requirements of building laws and fire underwriters. They are surfaced with crushed slate which is spark-proof.

They are offered in red or green shades—the natural fadeless slate colors. They require no paint to keep them permanently beautiful. Place your order early.
